would be the most important thing. If one can figure out how to manipulate the antennae, it could make a huge difference. The way they are supposed to be, they come with a fix mechanism already fitted. I would suggest you make your own copies. I'd like to make a nice pair. However, from looking at the pictures it seems very difficult. First off, they look like the thorax is a bit small and as you can see from the picture, that is not the case. And they look like the leg/wing area is just a bit off. So what I'm wondering is how you would go about doing that, without going crazy. Do you just mark the ones you want to change (ie the thorax, and the leg/wing) and then cut off the original parts and connect the new ones? Or does it need a lot of time and effort and that is why no one has any pictures of their in-game models? They were to be like that so it's only a issue of cutting out the parts you want to change. The flight pattern is the same as the original so basically you just make a copy of that and cut out the part that needs changing and replace it with the new one. It's quite easy really and takes only a couple of minutes. Thanks, that was very helpful. I'm sure I'll get it right soon. Are the rest of the models relatively easy to modify? I'm wondering if the new legs could be made to be a little shorter than the original, as that is the only thing that bugged me when I first got my model. It seems to me that they would have to be so, as the original legs are nowhere to be seen in the above picture. Are the rest
